In addition to the exams mentioned above, an entrance exam is required for transfer students. For more details on the entrance exams, refer to the entrance exam guidelines.

Graduate Schools

- Graduate School of Applied Linguistics
- Graduate School of Economics
- Graduate School of Real Estate Sciences

The graduate schools of Meikai University impart advanced knowledge and skills. There are currently more than 70 international students enrolled in these graduate schools, and the university encourages them to study with their Japanese counterparts.

Graduate Schools

Producing People with Advanced, Specialized Knowledge and Skills

Graduate School of Applied Linguistics

Applied linguistics, a field in which students study a broad range of topics related to language and human behavior, covers a variety of subjects, including foreign-language education, language and society, psychology, computers, literature, and culture. This graduate school has three courses—language education, language behavior, and language culture—and offers programs on Japanese-language education, English-language education, and interpreting training, among others.

• Degrees

Master's Program: Master's degree in applied linguistics or master's degree in Japanese-language education

Doctoral Program: Doctoral degree in applied linguistics or doctoral degree in Japanese-language education

Graduate School of Economics

This graduate school offers courses in groundbreaking subjects that encourage students to explore new economic paradigms, including international finance, trade, business management, the environment, and issues of an aging society. It boasts three fields of specialization in which students can hone their skills as well as instructors from various fields who have a wealth of practical experience that informs their implementation of the curriculum. A great deal of attention is focused on computer literacy coursework.

• Degrees

Master's Program: Master's degree in economics

Graduate School of Real Estate Sciences

This graduate school combines research findings achieved in the individual fields of economics, law, and engineering into the single field of real estate sciences and is the only one of its kind in Japan to comprehensively address topics ranging from the 21st-century real estate business to urban and environmental construction. It offers a wide range of highly specialized programs in such subjects as the real estate business, real estate financing, real estate law, real estate management, and urban space systems.

• Degrees

Master's Program: Master's degree in real estate sciences

Doctoral Program: Doctoral degree in real estate sciences

Special Japanese Language Course

The Special Japanese Language Course offers Japanese-language education aimed at enabling students to pursue higher education at a Japanese university or graduate school based on the concept of international exchange, which is set in the motto of this university.

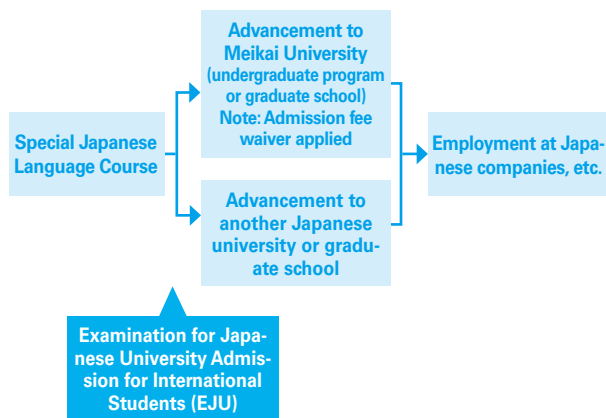

Special Japanese Language Course A University Open to the World

About the Special Japanese Language Course

The Special Japanese Language Course was established in 1991. It embodies the Meikai University spirit of international exchange and provides the kind of Japanese-language education that students need in order to pursue an education at the university level.

The major difference between this special course and an ordinary Japanese-language school is that the purpose of the former is to enable students to pursue higher education at the undergraduate and graduate school level in Japan. Students who complete one year of this program can pursue an undergraduate or graduate school education at Meikai University or any other national, public, or private university or graduate school in Japan.

Model Case of Advancement to Higher Education

Special Features

1 Classes Divided into Small Groups by Skill Level

Breaking the class up by skill level ensures that lessons can be specifically tailored to students and conducted as efficiently as possible.

2 Practical Curriculum

The course offers a practical curriculum, the ultimate goal of which is to enable students to continue their education at a Japanese university.

3 Enrollment by Recommendation

Students who excel in their studies can enroll in Meikai University (Faculty of Languages and Cultures, Faculty of Economics, Faculty of Real Estate Sciences, or School of Hospitality & Tourism Management) by recommendation.

4 Meikai University Admission Fee Exemption

Those who have completed this course will be exempt from paying the admission fee when applying to undergraduate or graduate school programs (master's or doctoral) at Meikai University.

5 Interaction with Japanese Students

The university plans a variety of exchange activities that give students access to the Japanese language and culture, such as opportunities to interact with students in the Department of Japanese and Department of Chinese in the Faculty of Languages and Cultures.

Number of International Students in the Special Course

Note: Figures are as of May 1, 2011.

Meikai University has accepted international students from the following countries and regions:

China: 32; South Korea: 2; Taiwan: 2; Philippines: 2; Laos: 1; and United States: 1 (total: 40 students)

Fees, Scholarships, Etc. Fees and Scholarship Programs That Let Students Focus on Their Studies

*The academic fee does not include the cost of books and supplies.

Scholarships

1 Toyoko Toyoda Scholarship

This scholarship was established using donations from Toyoko Toyoda, a professor emeritus who previously taught classes on Japanese affairs as part of the Special Japanese Language Course. The scholarship is awarded through a selection process to candidates who want to continue their higher education but need financial assistance, who have demonstrated their academic ambitions and achieved excellent grades, and who have a high rate of attendance. The scholarship period is six months. The monthly scholarship is ¥50,000. In the 2010 academic year, this scholarship was awarded to four students in the special course.

2 JASSO Offers Scholarships to Privately Financed International Students

Through a selection process, the Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO) offers scholarships to individuals who demonstrate excellence in school work and personal character and require financial aid to continue their studies in Japan.

(1) Scholarship amount:

Students in the special course: ¥48,000/month (for one year)

(2) Number of students in the special course who qualified in the 2010 academic year: 2

Curriculum Well-Rounded Curriculum

Curriculum

The goal of this course is to bring students' Japanese-language skills up to the level required for taking classes at the undergraduate or graduate school level. It is designed for international students who are hoping to enroll in a university or graduate school program.

Furthermore, by enhancing students' understanding of Japanese culture and society, this program aims to help improve their quality of life and ability to communicate while living in Japan.

Japanese Language

Systematic Japanese-language education is provided based on each student's level of Japanese. The curriculum aims to help students perform well on the Examination for Japanese University Admission for International Students (EJU), which measures the skills that are needed for admission to a university.

- Grammar
- Kanji/hiragana/katakana and vocabulary
- Oral expression
- Listening comprehension
- Reading comprehension
- Written expression

Liberal Arts

By teaching a broad range of subjects, including Japanese geography, industry, history, and current affairs, this course aims to give students a more in-depth understanding of Japan.

- Japanese affairs

General Education

The course offers classes on subjects that are on the EJU and university entrance exams.

- English
- Mathematics
- Society

Education Staff

Highly experienced instructors are passionate about their work and offer thorough student guidance.

Schedule C (Applicants overseas and in Japan)	Apr. 16 through May 12, 2012	May 30, 2012	Sep. 2012

Selection Process and Results

1 Application Method

When applying, be sure to identify someone who can serve as your guarantor (as a rule, one of your parents).

2 Selection Process

Students are selected for admission based on their application materials.

3 Notification of Acceptance/Rejection

Applicants will be notified in writing whether they have been accepted for admission.

Application Requirements

1 Individuals who have completed 12 years of normal school education in a foreign country and are under 30 years of age at the time of admission

2 Individuals who have spent 150 hours or more studying the Japanese language (Priority will be given to those who have achieved N5 [level 4] or higher on the Japanese-Language Proficiency Test [JLPT], J.Test level F or higher, and NAT-TEST level 4 or higher.)

Note: Those living in regions that do not use Chinese characters (countries other than China, Taiwan, and South Korea) need to have achieved N4 (level 3) or higher on JLPT.

3 When an individual who is enrolled in a Japanese-language educational institution in Japan applies for admission, he or she will be required to have met certain standards in terms of grade and attendance rate. (As a rule, his or her grades must be at the passing level [60% or higher], and he or she must have an hour-based attendance rate of 90% or greater.)

Notes: 1. If an applicant has been enrolled in another Japanese-language educational institution in Japan for more than a year, he or she is ineligible to apply for admission.

2. Individuals who are in Japan on a short-term (tourism) visa shall not be considered "applicants in Japan."

For more details on the entrance exam, refer to the application guidelines for the Special Japanese Language Course.
